

Carolyn, known to many as Goody, was born in Montgomery Co. on Aug. 26, 1933 to Frank and Thelma McLean. She grew up on a farm with 3 brothers and 2 sisters. She attended Carmargo High School and was a cheerleader there.

On Dec. 2, 1950, at the age of 17, she married Jack Omohundro and by the time she was just over 23 years of age she had a newborn (Daniel), a 3 year old (Terry), and a 5 year old (Rick) – all boys. She raised them pretty much alone 5 out of 7 days each week, as Jack's work kept him from home throughout the week.

After her sons started school she began working outside the home. She worked in several places but most of her working career was at the Bath Co. Clerk's office and several more years as an attorney's secretary for Al Conway in Owingsville. When Mr. Conway retired, she came home and continued to prepare income tax returns, a job she had done for Mr. Conway while in his employment.

Some of the things she enjoyed was collecting and refinishing antique furniture, doing different types of crafts, going to yard sales, and traveling with and playing cards with her friends. Those she considered good friends and card buddies were Marcene Frizzell, Jewell McKenzie, Nancy Powell, Charlene Runner, and Maxine Wright.

Her favorite times of the year were Thanksgiving and especially Christmas, certainly not because of the weather, but because it was a time for a family gathering. She especially enjoyed this time because it was one of the few times a year when all her children and grandchildren were home at one time.

She was a member of the Salt Lick Christian Church and attended regularly with Jack, Rick, Nancy, and Brandon for many years.
